VALE.

AT the end of each school year it falls to the editor of The Elizabethan to record that his race here is run, and to hand on the torch to his successor. This year his eyes go back not only over the past twelvemonth, not only over all his time here, but over a period that is hardly less than his whole life. In that period more than a thousand boys have become Westminsters, more than a thousand have gone forth from Westminster into the world. Most of them will at times—many will often—visit again the beloved home of their boyhood, but now more than ever they will feel the truth of the Greek proverb that there is no second time. In Abbey and in the Cloisters, up School and in the Yard, the old emotions will stir in their hearts, the old love will be kindled anew; but neither the patriotism which amid all vicissitudes sets its gaze on the continuity of the School's life, nor the piety which cheerfully submits to the inevitable lot of man, will wholly remove the consciousness of a blank. The body politic, as it is more lasting, so is greater than the individual; but when, as here, such feelings have been fully earned, then, at such a moment as this, affection and reverence for the man are more lively even than for the School.

It is not for us to speak generally of Dr. Rutherford's work in education. Those who have read, no less than those who have heard, his sermons know that at Westminster we have been free from false theories, from the tyranny of the current phrase, from the mechanical application of mechanical principles. This is work that the same hand might have done elsewhere. We have here rather to reflect on Dr. Rutherford's ceaseless devotion to Westminster and Westminsters, on the long and untiring service, of which in one sense the cause and in another the effect is that which he lately claimed, and which all know that he possesses, 'a Westminster heart.' And so Westminster stands in her strength. Penned in by the throng, we can never again in our narrow acres count so many heads as Eton or as Winchester. We are none the worse, we may even be the better, for that. Little Benjamin is brother-in-arms to Reuben and to Judah. Dr. Rutherford has been long enough at Westminster to see his pupils marching to the van, to see their work in the liberal professions and the public services, in the Colleges and Chairs of the Universities, in the various occupations of a busy world. Others he has mourned, cut off while their time was but the hour of hope, when their feet were but upon the threshold. His spirit was in these, as it will be in those, even to the last.

Two decades of years cannot pass without changes inward and outward. To the forty scholars of Queen Elizabeth there have been added twenty others, who do not dwell under Wren's roof. That the change began, as the system continues, in amity is the mark of a skilful hand. Again, the doing and the not doing have alike been justified by time. One ancient amusement passed away, but what the ear lost the football gained. One institution, common in schools but not therefore necessarily beneficial, we do not possess. For its absence some of us have lately heard in the House of Lords reasons as sound from a national point of view as others are sufficient from another. The new Rigaud's those who do not remember the old may judge by its neighbours, and will surely give judgment in its favour. Even the little building under Liddell's tree gives character where there was none. 'Up Fields' the new pavilion, new no more in the eyes of the present generation, has its record of energy in another sphere. Do not the very boards inform the mindful eye how the pink passes into the blue? Have we not seen in Dr. Rutherford's last weeks to be spent among us how initial disaster can be retrieved, how his spirit could animate us to victory?

And so our thoughts pass into the future, and we picture ourselves after long years. The life of to-day is become a recollection, but it is the most accurate recollection of all our days. Some of us may live very far into the century. Among the most cherished memories of our greybeards in some distant reign will be the hours which they spent with Dr. Rutherford in the Seventh Form at Westminster.

One word we must say on that which has come home to the heart of every one of us. Our Headmaster has spent his strength in our service. The force of mind which he carries away with him must wait for the recovery of bodily health. May that recovery be speedy and complete!

Dr. Rutherford is succeeded by an old friend of his own. Can we conceive a better wish than that posterity should couple his successor with him, and couple us with them both, in the words of the philosopher of old?—

POETRY.

SARPEDON TO GLAUCUS.

Dear heart, an 'twere so that were this fight but avoided Thenceforward for ever nor years nor death should assail us,
Nor would I here myself go forth to the front o' the fighting
Nor would I urge on thee to the fray where men win glory :
But now, since anyhow death's dooms stand alway
about us
Countless, not to be shunn'd of a mortal man, let us
onward
Or to be slain i' the fighting or haply to gain us glory. S.

Sir Howard Vincent (O.W.) has been appointed aide-de-camp to the King.

The Junior House Cup for Cricket has been won by College, who defeated each of the other houses.

The King's Scholars' rights with regard to the coming Coronation have been fully recognised by the Court.

The results of the swimming competitions are :— Senior (150 yards) : 1, F. A. Vernon ; 2, G. Castle Smith. Junior (120 yards) : 1, Try ; 2, Mellows. Diving, Blane.

We congratulate the following, who received their 'Pinks' after the Charterhouse match :—J. P. Blane, C. M. Page, J. M. Logan, W. A. Greene, H. D. G. Law, and H. A. Roberts.

We congratulate our two 'Blues,' R. E. More at Oxford and R. N. R. Blaker at Cambridge, on again playing in the 'Varsity match. Both did well ; Blaker's first innings was considered by several of the papers to be the most attractive of the day, and curiously enough More took his wicket. More bowled well, and in Oxford's first innings made 75, which was second score. They both failed to make many on the second attempt.

In county cricket both R. E. More and L. J. Moon have been playing for Middlesex. More bowls with success, and our especial congratulations are due to him on being chosen to play for Gentlemen in the return match v. Players. Moon helped much to save the game for Middlesex against Surrey by his steady innings of 70 not out. R. N. R. Blaker has played for Kent, and, though he does not score highly, makes runs regularly.

The following is the Cricket Card filled in to date :

THE FIELDS.

WESTMINSTER v. O. U. AUTHENTICS.

THE School were easily defeated by a very strong team of the Authentics on June 22. A start was made about 12 o'clock, and in his first over J. P. Blane clean bowled R. E. More. About an hour later, and with the score at 146, the next wicket fell. Lee had scored quickly all round the wicket, but he could not keep pace with Bosanquet, who hit everything, and reached his 100 after 75 minutes' batting. C. D. Fisher hit a couple of 4's and a 5, and was then bowled by H. A. Roberts, who had dismissed Lee one over earlier. Hulton was out at once, and at the interval Bosanquet was not out 107. On continuing at 2.25 Roberts clean bowled O'Brien with his third ball; twenty runs later Bosanquet's fine innings came to an end. Except for a chance in the deep-field at 34 he made no mistakes; he hit fifteen 4's. The next four wickets fell quickly, and the innings ended at 3.5. Roberts and Knight bowled well, taking five wickets for 42 and three for 49 respectively.

When the School went in at 3.15 the wicket had become very difficult. After a long spell of hard, fast wickets, the sudden change to a slow, sticky one seemed to upset the team, and the collapse which followed must be attributed partly to this and partly to More's bowling, which was much too tricky for most of our side. Blane played a very sound and careful innings, which did not end till six other wickets had fallen, Page being the only one to stay with him at all. Afterwards H. Logan and Roberts both got into double figures, but neither stayed long, and the innings was over by a quarter to five. More took seven wickets for 47. When the School went in a second time Blane again played well, and had hard luck in not reaching his 50. Hulton's lobs secured a couple of wickets, and C. M. Page was out just on time.

WESTMINSTER v. CHARTERHOUSE.

Played 'Up Fields' on June 28 and 29. Cleveland-Stevens won the toss, and chose to bat on an excellent wicket. The captain took Blane in with him, and Goodliffe and Branston bowled. After two maiden overs each batsman scored 3. The play was careful and good, but at 16 Cleveland-Stevens, in trying a short run, lost his wicket. At 21, through a misunderstanding between the batsmen, Blane was out in the same way. After this the men were obviously disheartened. Some defence was shown by J. M. Logan, but his inability to play a short ball made him send a long hop tamely into point's hands. Roberts hit with some freedom, and Law helped him to put on 14 for the last wicket, but the innings ended at one o'clock.

Charterhouse had fifteen minutes' batting before luncheon, and at 14 a yorker from Roberts bowled Curwen. After luncheon a good stand was made by Mellor and Denison, and when Mellor was out Denison played good cricket. With the score at 70 Cleveland-Stevens put himself on to bowl, and this proved the turning-point of the innings. He bowled Denison at once, and with good fielding he and Law carried all before them. Law made a good catch low down at slip, and J. M. Logan another high up at mid-on. The innings ended about four o'clock.

In Westminster's second innings, with two good wickets down for 39 it looked as though there would be no good score; but when Page joined Cleveland-Stevens there was a great change. The captain played most careful cricket, though at times hitting with much power, and Page, after batting timidly for a few overs, settled down to excellent play. The bowling was tame and monotonous, and the score rose at a good pace. When Cleveland-Stevens was bowled by Mellor, 91 runs had been added. In Cleveland-Stevens' innings, which had lasted two hours, there were two 5's and four 4's. Most of his runs were got by leg hits and late cuts. No other wicket fell that evening, and thus Westminster had a distinct advantage.

On Saturday another good stand was made before Page was bowled off his pads. In his 55 were a 5 and two 4's. Harrison then joined Logan, but, though he made half the runs while he was in, never seemed quite at home. At 237 he was caught at the wicket, and Logan did not long survive him. Trying his hook stroke once too often, he was bowled. In his 51, made in an hour and three-quarters, were a 5 and three 4's. H. Logan, who often wishes to hit before he is set, was soon bowled. Roberts was sent in to hit, but failed, and Powers ran himself out in a most absurd way at 266. But the innings was not yet over. Knight, playing with caution and not without skill, kept in with Law till luncheon-time. The innings lasted till 2.25, when Knight was bowled by a yorker.

Charterhouse were left to make 270, and at no time seemed very likely to get it. Branston played very good cricket, and was well set when, at 45, he was run out. After the fall of the fourth wicket Curwen and Norris played so well that it seemed possible they might save the game. At 92 Greene was put on, and again a change was the turning-point. Norris was bowled by what looked like a half-volley turned into a yorker, and at 104 Curwen completely mistook a straight ball. Denison and Garforth played good cricket in discouraging circumstances. At 143 the former was caught by J. M. Logan in the deep field. The fieldsman at first misjudged the catch, and, having made it difficult, caught it brilliantly. After this Grahame made some good hits, but the innings ended for 178, and Westminster had won by 92 runs.

In a season that has been generally unsuccessful there is a peculiar satisfaction in winning the Charterhouse match. Cleveland-Stevens is to be especially congratulated, as he had the largest share in the victory. In the whole match he took six wickets for 50 runs, and his batting in the second innings saved the side. Of the other Westminster batsmen Page was the best, and the help which he gave to Cleveland-Stevens in the second innings was invaluable. J. M. Logan's style is stiff, and, though he has some good strokes, a bowler with a head would see that he cannot play a short ball. Knight showed better form than is usual with him, and Law was not defeated in either innings. Generally, it may be said that the Westminster batting was not up to the level of their opponents, but this inferiority was more than balanced by our better bowling. The Westminster bowling had considerable variety, and several of the bowlers used their heads. The Charterhouse bowling had little variety and was consistently mechanical. In the field the Westminsters were, perhaps, somewhat the better; some mistakes were made, but there was also some brilliant work. Neither side had quite such good men as the best of recent years, but in the course of the match there was much sound and interesting play. Scores and analyses:—

WESTMINSTER v. M.C.C.

This match was played on Wednesday, July 3; the School lost by nearly 100 runs. Cleveland-Stevens won the toss, and started the School's innings with Blane. After twenty minutes' play Pawling secured his first wicket with a good ball. Greene started well, but was soon out to the same bowler. Meanwhile Blane was playing very well, scoring quickly off Crawford's slows, and making some fine leg strokes off Pawling. The M.C.C., who had started with a side composed of gentlemen, now called Needham—who had been umpiring—to their assistance, and he took the ball from Crawford; he should have caught Blane off his own bowling when he had made 38. Page was bowled off his pads, and Logan clean bowled by Pawling, and then Harrison helped Blane to add 25 runs for the fifth wicket; Harrison was also out to Pawling, though not before he had made two fine off-drives off his bowling. H. Logan played well for his 14; he also made one very powerful drive off Pawling, who dismissed him with a beautiful ball. Knight was out next ball, and Willett was Pawling's third victim in this over. Meanwhile Blane had started steadily, and reached his 50 soon after Roberts had joined him. He was then caught and bowled by Needham for a 52 which was invaluable to his side. Roberts played pluckily; his 14 and 10 byes, which were run off consecutive balls, took the score to 147, which was the total when he was out immediately after lunch. Pawling, who took ten wickets for 52 runs, bowled a beautiful length after his first few overs, which were rather short. His fast deliveries on the leg stump were most successful. The M.C.C. began batting at 2.45, and the first wicket did not fall till 84 runs had been scored. Capt. Ash was out to an easy catch at extra-cover, and 5 runs later Lucas mistimed a ball from Powers. He had played finely for his 60, which, though it contained nearly 40 singles, was a hard hit innings; he was missed in the deep by Roberts at 53, and also by Powers. Needham was well bowled by Blane, but Crawford gave a lot of trouble before he was out to a fast ball from Roberts. J. E. Stevens came next and began hitting at once; Law was hit in the side by a very hot return from him which he nearly held; he was too disabled to go on, and Parker fielded sub. for him. Arbuthnot fell to an easy catch off Cleveland-Stevens, and two overs later the same bowler completely beat J. E. Stevens, who had been hitting with great power. The rest of the M.C.C., with the exception of Wilson, who carried his bat for 17, did not give much trouble, and they were all out by 6.15. Blane bowled excellently, taking four wickets for 25 runs.

WESTMINSTER v. O.WW.

This match was played on Saturday, July 3, and was won by the O.WW., chiefly owing to the efforts of S. S. Harris, who took our wickets just when the batsmen were getting comfortable, and played a fine though very lucky innings of 80. Cleveland-Stevens again won the toss, and was out in the third over with the score at 20. Blane and Greene played well, and looked like making runs, when Harris went on for Foster and got Blane caught at point off his second ball. Page played the next ball on to his wicket, and 20 runs later Greene was caught at short leg. Harrison did not stay long, and it was not till the brothers Logan got together that the 100 went up. J. Logan was out at 118; he tried to pull a short ball from Oliver, but hit it on to his wicket. Roberts was out at 135 just before lunch.

Afterwards Knight and Powers went out quickly, and H. Logan was caught off a ball which got up awkwardly. The side were all out by 2.30. Harris had taken 4 wickets for 28 runs. Fevez took first ball from Roberts, and hit him for two 4's—one very long drive to Elson's—and a 2 before being well caught at extra-cover. Oliver played too late to a fast ball from Roberts, and Harris came in. He began by hitting three 4's, and then settled down to quieter play; he only gave one actual chance in his innings, which was at the wicket off Cleveland-Stevens, but he was several times beaten by that bowler. Whittow stayed with him till 50, and was then out to a good ball; Beasley followed him after making four singles. Harris and Murray scored fast all round the wicket, and added 60 runs before Powers bowled the left-hander. Foster made 14 before falling to the same bowler, whom he tried to hit. Harris's innings now ended in a rather tame return to Roberts; he hit three 4's running before he was out; his innings lasted an hour and fifty minutes, and contained one 6 and eight 4's. Stamp was easily defeated by Roberts, and Veitch hit too hard to last long. The last wicket made a most sensational stand, adding 60 runs in twenty-five minutes. This was due almost entirely to Rayner, who hit very well and with great power. Williams played tamely, and was beaten by a good ball from Blane at 5.30. Roberts bowled best for the School, taking 4 wickets for 46 runs. In the second innings the School lost 3 wickets in thirty-five minutes.

RIGAUD'S v. H.B.B.

Rigaud's won the toss, but made a wretched attempt, and were all out for the poor total of 54. M. Macdonald proved the chief thorn in their side, getting seven wickets for 15 runs, while one easy catch was missed off him. Only Kitson played him with confidence. Rigaud's had bad luck to lose Page, run out, though the batsman had only himself to blame. H.B.B. did little better and were all dismissed for 67. V. B. H. Knight played with great caution, and M. Macdonald and R. B. J. Scott managed to reach double figures. In their second innings Rigaud's did much better, but it must be allowed that they had great luck, the number of times the ball beat the bat yet missed the wicket being extraordinary. Page and Willett laid the foundation, not being separated till 83 runs were on the board, when Knight bowled Willett with a ball he never attempted to play. Page was soon after bowled by Macdonald for 36. These two had made a plucky attempt to put their side in a good position. Kitson again did well, but Lonsdale, though he made 27, was never comfortable. The innings eventually closed for 204, leaving H.B.B. 192 to win. This task was begun by the brothers Knight, and a good start was made, 34 being made before the elder one failed to put one of Powers' to leg and was caught at mid-on. Davies played very prettily and made 19, chiefly through the slips. Scott and J. C. Vernon made a great stand. Both had wonderful luck, being missed easily several times, but they added 61 invaluable runs before Scott was caught in the deep field. Couchman quickly finished off the innings, leaving Rigaud's victors, as stated, by 23 runs. Rigaud's nearly threw the match away by their faulty fielding, but too much praise cannot be given to J. C. Vernon for his fearless hitting. Scott suffered at the hands of the scorers. Of the younger players, Macdonald and Couchman seem the most promising bowlers, while Couchman, Lonsdale, Connor, and V. B. H. Knight should do well in batting.

House Notes.

COLLEGE.—We are glad to be able to congratulate Roberts and Law on getting their Pinks after the Charterhouse match. Fives ties were finished on the 19th by the victory of Roberts and Bottomley, after some very exciting games. We have heard nothing lately of the Inter-house Fives ties, but we believe College proved to the fore. The Literary Society has finished this year's reading with selections from Shakespeare and Sheridan. The selection from The School for Scandal was undoubtedly the best, whereas some of those from Shakespeare were rather tamely rendered. We are pleased to see that the petition for our privileges at the coming Coronation has been sent in.

GRANT'S.—In the House matches we easily vanquished Ashburnham in the first round, thanks mainly to some fine bowling by J. P. Blane and to consistent batting by E. C. Cleveland-Stevens and the brothers Logan. Grant's was the mainstay of the team against Charterhouse. E. C. Cleveland-Stevens made top score and took six valuable wickets, and J. Logan also made over 50. We heartily congratulate J. P. Blane and J. Logan on getting their Pinks after the match, and E. C. Cleveland-Stevens on getting both the batting and bowling Pashley cups. It is the first time that both have gone to the same player. We have had the batting cup up Grant's before—last year—but never the bowling. We are sorry to hear that we shall lose E. C. Cleveland-Stevens, J. E. Y. Radcliffe, M. C. Smith, J. P. Blane, J. Logan, and perhaps S. A. Dickson this term. The House will seem very quiet without them.

RIGAUD'S.—Our notes in this number—the last of the term—will be somewhat short and uninteresting, as the last month has been uneventful. Congratulations to C. M. Page on his Pinks after Charterhouse. We have just beaten H.B.B. in the first round of the House matches by no too wide a margin. Our chances in the final do not appear to be promising; but, as the result will probably be settled before this appears in print, we will not discuss them. The final has been reached in the Yard ties. We wish Page success in his Prelim. Sci. Examination, for which he is now up. Great interest attaches to the semi-final round of the Inter-House Fives ties. We played a whole game out and part of another with College at the beginning of the term. Congratulations to R. E. More on playing for Gentlemen. He is the first O.W. who has played within memory of the writer.

H.B.B.—At last we have finished our Fives ties; after two most interesting games P. T. Browning and R. B. J. Scott defeated V. B. H. Knight and P. H. Ormiston. In cricket our endeavours have not met with the success they deserved. In the Juniors we were badly beaten by the College. In the Seniors we were drawn against Rigaud's, and were defeated after a close but remarkable game by the narrow margin of 23 runs. Some dissatisfaction is felt at the result owing to some obvious mistakes of the scorers, which considerably (?) lessened the score of our second innings. For us J. C. Vernon made a grand attempt of 50 in the second innings, hitting out with great power and determination. L. J. Connor, C. B. H. Knight, and R. B. J. Scott also made strenuous efforts. In bowling M. Macdonald did great service, getting 7 wickets for 15 runs in the first innings. In the second innings C. B. Knight pegged away hard, in spite of his bad luck, for 2½ hours without a change. In our fielding there was room for improvement. M. Macdonald, P. H. Napier, J. C. Vernon, and R. B. J. Scott have received their house colours, on which we congratulate them, while we condole with the XI. on their narrow defeat. Congratulations are due to the brothers Doherty (O.W.W.) on again winning the All England Doubles at lawn tennis, also to H. Plaskitt (O.W.) on representing Oxford at the same game. We congratulate L. J. Connor on having passed the Preliminary Examination for the Institute of Chartered Accountants. In the Army Service Corps, 2nd Lieut. A. C. Robinson has been promoted to be lieutenant.

ASHBURNHAM.—Since last number the Junior Cup has passed from our hands. Our junior team succumbed to Grant's after a promising opening. Geddes and Walton both bowled well, and should be good in a year or two. Our heartiest congratulations are due to W. A. Greene on obtaining his well-earned Pinks after the Charterhouse match. In the Seniors we were drawn against Grant's, who defeated us badly. The result was a foregone conclusion, but we had hoped to have made a better stand. After the match Edmunds and Bendall received their house colours, on which we heartily congratulate them. Capon and Fry should both do well in the Swimming Competition. We wish them every success.

Obituary.

WE regret to announce the death of CHARLES PILLING MCKEAND. He was a son of the late Joseph McKeand, surgeon, of Manchester, was born in 1854, and was at the School from 1870 to 1872. He was called to the Bar in 1877, and practised at Manchester. He died on July 2.

WE have also to regret the death of GEORGE HANBY DE'ATH at the age of thirty-nine. He was at the School from 1874 to 1878, and went to Guy's Hospital. He became M.R.C.S. in 1884, and practised at Buckingham, where he took a leading part in the institutions of the district. Mr. De' Ath died on July 8.

WE have also to record with regret the death of GEORGE DOWNING BOWLES, who for the last thirty-five years was rector of Wendlebury. He was born in 1826, admitted in 1840, Q.S. 1841, and elected to Christ Church in 1845. Mr. Bowles died after four years' illness on April 4.

WE record with much regret the death of GERMAIN LAVIE, one of the Registrars in the Court of Chancery and a Busby Trustee. He was born in 1836, a son of Col. Tudor Lavie, of the Madras Army, admitted in 1849, Q.S. in 1850, and elected head to Christ Church in 1854. He took a First Class in Moderations in 1856, and his degree in 1858. He was admitted a solicitor in 1861. Mr. Lavie was at one time a contributor to the John Bull newspaper and a reviewer of considerable note. He died after a long and painful illness on July 16.

WESTMINSTER SLANG.

To the Editor of 'The Elizabethan.'

DEAR MR. EDITOR,—I notice in a review on the last page of your June number that you call 'School' a mistake for 'Up-School.' I believe that now you do use the phrase as a noun, though whether you ever say 'in Up-School' I have not heard. But the use is modern. In my period (1868-1875) it was not a noun, but a phrase, one of several—Up-School, Up-Fields, Up-Grant's, and Up-Rigaud's—in all of which up was a preposition governing a noun. Is Rigaud's now called 'U1-Rigaud's'? I am, Sir, yours sincerely,

W. H. C. COWELL.

[Up-School and Up-Fields are current substantives, whilst Up-Grant's, &c., are still adverbial phrases.—ED.]
